

Chef Kim Allen-Jones

Kim Allen-Jones began her cooking career in the San Francisco Bay Area twenty years ago. She worked managing kitchens and cooking in California until 1995 when she moved overseas. For the next ten years she taught international cooking classes to expatriate and local clients in Mexico, Israel, and Poland. During her time in Europe she lived in Paris, where she studied at the prestigious Le Cordon Bleu cooking school. Upon completing her studies she was awarded the honor of top student in her class of working professional chefs. In 2006 she returned to San Francisco where she qualified to train as a certified Master Taster. Working as a Master Taster she sat on a panel of accomplished chefs judging the best products sold across the United States. Along with her work as a Master Taster in San Francisco she also represented All-Clad Professional Cookware and Shun Knives. She is very excited to be continuing her overseas life in Peru and to learn everything there is to know about its wonderful cuisine.
